

Cypress is the new kid in the front-end testing market which is gaining popularity amongst testers and developers alike. It can test anything that runs in a browser. Cypress is open source and its community is very active. Cypress tests are written in JavaScript but let that not scare you