

Hanna Boubout's part: His main work; Overview of Lawrence Venuti's main work in the field of translation studies. Having said that, Lawrence Venuti is a highly respected translation theorist and scholar who has made significant contributions to the understanding and practice of translation. Foreignization refers to maintaining the foreignness and uniqueness of the source text, while domestication involves adapting the text to the target culture. Venuti advocates for a more nuanced approach that balances both strategies, allowing for cultural exchange while preserving the integrity of the source text.