

The reason for adopting this new technology in many residential areas is that photovoltaic systems
.maintain the independence of energy production and are therefore unaffected by utilities