

o Farmers: Farmers are a powerful stakeholder group in Egypt, as they control a large share of the country's water resources.

o Industrial businesses: Industrial businesses are also a powerful stakeholder group in Egypt, as they are major consumers of water. However, their interest in water conservation may be medium, as they are often concerned about the cost of water-efficient technologies.