

The energy conversion of biomass is essentially based on thermal or hydrothermal conversion processes.