

The high frequency of road accidents today makes human life unsafe, primarily due to reckless driving and disregard for traffic regulations. A significant contributing factor is ignoring red traffic lights, continuing to drive even when the signal indicates to stop. Furthermore, using mobile phones while driving adds to the risk. Given the potential severity of accidents, constant vigilance is crucial when outdoors.