Oil is an organic substance formed as a result of exposure temperature for millions of years. Oil derivatives are used	