

My family consists of five people: my mother, father, and an older brother than me. I am the middle sister, and my sister is younger than me. My older brother has completed his studies and is currently working, and I am studying and working at the same time. I like classics, and she prefers jeans. My younger sister has completed high school and is looking for work. She is dark-skinned, and I am white. Her style of clothing is different from mine
