

Graphic rating tools are commonly used in performance appraisal systems to evaluate and evaluate the performance of employees based on specific criteria. These tools provide a visual representation of performance levels and allow managers to rate employees on a standardized scale. Behavioral rating scale this type of tool provides more detailed and objective feedback by linking performance levels to observable behaviors.