

The architectural influence of St. Peter's Basilica has extended far beyond Rome. This influence is evident in the replication of similar architectural forms, such as the Latin cross floor plan and dome, which became symbols of Christian architecture globally