

In the liquid phase, molecules are much more mobile and collisions are much more frequent than in the solid phase.