Developing co	ountries are growing rapidly in the pre reproductive state and reproductive state greatly exceeds those in the post reproductive state in the population in developed countries exceeds those in the post reproductive state in the population in developed countries