

Sample of the study? Researchers can study large groups of people. Samples enable researchers to/2 conduct experiments faster and with more manageable data. It is very unusual for researchers to be able .to obtain information from every member of the population they are studying