

Radiation safety standards are based on knowledge of radiation effects and on established principles of radiation protection.– Levels of radiation exposure due to various sources