Reduced Software Licensing Costs Traditional enterprise software licensing is a large cost-center for many businesses.There are occasions where native applications are preferable, but as new web technologies become widely available, the web platform and the cloud will further cement their place as the leading app development and delivery strategy.Vendor loved to lock their customers into applications .and charge huge licensing, upgrade, and support fees

lakhasly.com © تم تلخيص النص بواسطة موقع لخصلي