

appreciation is the difference between the sale price and the purchase price of the investment. The .dividend or interest from the investment is the yield