

phylogenetic trees reveal that the Indian species in this analysis [24 species, including 15 in Goetsch et al. (2005) and nine added here] are spread across clades A and B (but not C), broadly consistent with existing classification (Fig. Within clade A, R. moulmainense Hook.f. is placed in the monophyletic section Choniastrum Franch., which is sister to a large clade containing the paraphyletic section Rhododendron L. and nested sections Vireya Blume and Pogonanthum G.Don.ex. G.Don, R. ciliatum Hook.f., R. dalhousieae Hook.f., R. nuttallii Booth ex Nutt, R. setosum D.Don, R. edgeworthii Hook.f., R. xanthostephanum Merr, and R. pendulum Hook.f. are placed in one clade (including section Vireya) and five—R. Two species, R. vaccinoides Hook.f. and R. santa-paui Sastry et al., are in the .(monophyletic section Vireya Blume.Ten species—R. 3