

The Betrayal A king lived in a fort with his daughter, Clara. The king had founded a great empire, but his land was rife with enemies who wanted to take over the kingdom. "You can't distrust everyone," commented Clara. Because there was so much civil unrest, the king told Clara not to trust anyone. After .that, Susie and Clara met every day