

This research examines the impact of artificial intelligence tools on humanistic norms in architecture, exploring how these tools can enhance or undermine human-centered values within the built environment.