This research examines the impact of artificial intelligence tools on humanistic norms in architecture, exploring how these tools can enhance or undermine human–centered values within the built .environment