Watching drama and films is a useful way to learn English.In conclusion, watching drama and films is a helpful and enjoyable method to learn English, especially when combined with other learning activities.First, films and dramas help people learn new vocabulary and expressions.However, learners should choose suitable films and not rely only on watching.In my opinion, it helps learners improve their language skills in an enjoyable and natural way.When we watch characters speaking, we hear real-life conversations, not just textbook language.
