

proficiency in English is a must if you want to work in travel. It is true that fluency in English will make you suitable for global communication with both guests and suppliers. What is preventing you from mastering this universal language, then? English is a language that is required for pilots and cabin crew, as it is the international language of aviation.