In my opinion, addressing e-waste ethically requires a collective effort.Manufacturers should prioritize designing sustainable, recyclable products, consumers must adopt responsible disposal practices, and governments need to establish and enforce stringent regulations.