

Aren't international sports supposed to promote moral development, individual achievement, cooperative sportsmanship, and multicultural understanding? Unfair judges have awarded medals because of national pride rather than true athletic performance. Instead, the patriotism of sports has often become nationalism—unhealthy group pride. This is not a healthy practice in the search for world peace