The quality of a product, service or process should always be checked in project management. This is the reason why the quality control measurements are used by project managers to document the results of the control quality activities.