

People who are poor are more likely to be affected by different forms of malnutrition. The world loses an astounding quantity of food every year. It blows your mind but a third of all food for human consumption in the world is lost or wasted