

Mesihovic et al., 2016). When the mother plant experiences stress conditions, this signal will reach the pollen grains and affect preparation and timing of pollen dispersal. Anther and pollen desiccation are crucial to prepare pollen for dispersal when environmental conditions are optimal for pollen survival