

As the amount of mozzarella consumed increases, the number of civil engineering doctorates also increases. As the demand for more roadways, airports, and water and sewage treatment plants grows, the demand for more civil engineers also increases. Consumption of mozzarella does not cause anyone to obtain a doctoral degree in civil engineering.