

Women and men have a complementary relationship, and each has characteristics that make it distinct from the other