

bracketing paradox – inconsistency between the structure suggested by the syntactic or morphological–9 properties of an expression and the structure suggested by its meaning