1960s: Password Protection It was during the 1960s when organizations first started to become more protective of their computers.