

If you work in academia, your CV will likely be the first shot you have at setting yourself apart to your future employer. Detailing all of these categories can mean a pretty lengthy document.