

In temperate terrains, panning for visible gold and multi-element analysis of soil or stream sediment samples are commonly used to identify geochemical anomalies and reconstruct the mineral paragenesis of the mineralization.