

Wars of the Roses (1455–87) o After the defeat of the Hundred Years' War against France in 1453, most of the prominent sixty noble families in England were discontent with the king Henry VI because of his mental problems and weak rule.