

The essential objective of program testing is to guarantee that the program meets the specified quality benchmarks, is solid, and has capacities as anticipated.