

Poor adherence to continuous positive airway pressure (CPAP) treatment by adults with obstructive sleep apnea (OSA) is a common issue. However, the effectiveness of available eHealth technologies in improving CPAP adherence has not yet been systematically studied.