

Sure, here's a basic arm-strengthening exercise plan that you can follow: Day 1: Biceps and Forearms

- Overhead Dumbbell Tricep Extension: – 3 sets of 10–12 reps – Hold a dumbbell with both hands overhead and lower it behind your head, then extend your arms back up.
- Tricep Kickbacks: – 3 sets of 10–12 reps – Hold a dumbbell in each hand, hinge at the hips, and extend your arms back, focusing on squeezing the triceps at the top.
- Reverse Curls: – 3 sets of 10–12 reps – Grip the dumbbells with an overhand grip (palms facing down) and curl them up, focusing on the forearm muscles.
- Barbell Bicep Curls: – 3 sets of 10–12 reps – Use a barbell with an underhand grip (palms facing up) and curl it up toward your shoulders.
- Dumbbell Bicep Curls: – 3 sets of 10–12 reps – Start with a weight that challenges you but allows you to maintain proper form. – Focus on proper form and controlled movements throughout each exercise.

2.3.4.4.