

Although people all over the world are working longer and longer hours, we also have more leisure time than ever before. But they also read more. The vast majority, eighty-five percent. Husbands help in the house more than they did in the past, but in the UK for example, men do an average of just six hours a week compared to their wives. Regularly read newspapers, and fifty-four percent regularly read books. Although up to two thirds of modern European women work full-time, they still do the main share of the housework, too. Watching TV is by far the most popular leisure activity the world over. After sleeping and working. The British watch more TV than any other nation in Europe. Who do over eighteen hours.
