

It is expected that the impact of the value-added tax on the cost of living will be limited, especially since the rate that will be applied in the Sultanate is considered low when compared to that applied in other countries around the world, which means that the impact of this tax on the prices of goods and services will be subtle.