

Understanding different cultures is crucial for personal growth because it broadens our perspectives and helps us develop empathy and tolerance.