

The little girl recovered. One night, her little daughter had convulsive colic on the anniversary of the disappearance of John Smothers. The mother was greatly saddened by the disappearance of her husband. The little girl also married.