

On that Sunday night (Marta continued), I went to bed early. They had the new paraffin lamp in there with them, I remember. About eight o'clock, I think, like most younger children.