

John Barsad told Miss Pross when she saw him in the wine shop as she didn't see him for a long time and he told her that she would get him killed if she didn't stop speaking to him in English and calling him Solomon because he was disguised as a French citizen and didn't want people to know that he carried an English name