

Here's the translation: Hisham's Palace, located near the city of Jericho in Palestine, is an Islamic archaeological site dating back to the Umayyad period. The site serves as a tourist and educational destination for Palestinian children, and it also attracts foreign visitors, making it a notable stop for those entering through the Allenby Bridge.