the decision maker shuold Try to narrow the choices to five at a time. Research has shown that five choices are the optimal number the brain can handle at any one time. Any more than that, and you risk overwhelming your self with options

Summarized by © lakhasly.com