

Reactions to pain vary from person to person and can include physical responses like grimacing, sweating, or changes in heart rate, as well as emotional reactions such as fear, anger, or sadness.