

Fault tree analysis (FTA) is a graphical tool used to examine the causes of system-level errors. It uses Boolean logic to combine a series of lower-level events. It is basically a top-down approach to identify component-level failures (base events) that lead to system-level failures (top-level events).