

, people in resource-poor communities cannot afford the money to build proper toilets. Corporations can and must play a bigger role to help tackle the current crisis in global sanitation and hygiene.