Application in Daily Life Islamic philosophy emphasizes the practical application of knowledge in various aspects of daily life, including personal relationships, professional endeavors, and societal interactions. Through reflection on practice, individuals strive to align their actions with ethical principles and contribute positively to their communities. ? Arguments and Evidence In Islamic philosophy, the principle of "Arguments and Evidence" underscores the importance of rational discourse and logical justification in understanding religious concepts and daily life activities. Educators can craft engaging learning experiences by tapping into the storytelling's power to spark curiosity, encourage empathy, and nurture students into lifelong learners. The ego's progress is a continuous dynamic movement which assimilates the different aspects and stages, without negating any, the perceptive and the intellectual, thought and emotions, ideas and deeds are all integrated into the final aim of the ego. Islam underscores the compatibility of faith (IMAN) with reason and encourages a holistic approach to knowledge that integrates scriptural sources, rational inquiry, and empirical evidence. Many Islamic writers stipulated intellectual, physical and moral education aiming at producing good human beings from the social point of view and achieving eternal happiness and self-realization. Learning by Model/Examples: Also referred to as observational learning or social learning, this cognitive process involves individuals acquiring fresh behaviors, skills, or knowledge by observing and replicating the actions of others. Learning Dialogue: a conversational exchange that incorporates a learning moment; a discussion involving a tutor or fellow student aimed at addressing a problem, clarifying a concept, or explaining a solution, potentially leading to learning. Islamic Education promotes dialogue method and be welcoming to the participants from various religious backgrounds to discuss various problems that are happening in the community.
