

are individuals who conceive an idea for a new product or service and then create a business to shape their idea into reality. They are called small business entrepreneurs when found in small business units such as printing press, textile processing house, advertising agency, readymade garments or confectionery.